And Still We Grow

By Sue Beers

September 5, 1868, saw the dedication of Fort Wayne High School on Wayne Street, on the present site of the Paramount Theater.

The course of study in those days was entirely classical, stressing the study of languages. The high school offered, during the year 1867-1868, Latin, Greek, French, German, English, drawing, natural sciences, higher mathematics, painting, literature, and vocal and instrumental music, contrast to the old classical course, Central now trains her pupils in civics, economics, sociology, history, industrial arts, commercial studies, home economics, science, and physical education. Sixty years ago pupils worried unceasinaly over the period from the second week of May to the close of school year on account of final exams. These examinations were very thorough but usually had only ten questions in each subject.

Extra-Curricular Activities today have greatly increased and have their part in determining the future of many graduates, because those who are prominent in this line of work usually find employment in established business houses. Our courses in journalism and public speaking have a large following and do their part well in determining future orators, lawyers, and journalists. Boys who have graduated from Central vocational courses have become foremen in prominent factories.

At the close of the nineteenth century the city's first high school was so overcrowded that bonds were floated by Oliver P. Morgan, John S. Irwin, and Edward Slocum, and the New Fort Wayne High and Manual Training School was built in 1902. This school came to be known as our own Central, "Mother of Fort Wayne Schools."

By 1922 the enrollment had again increased so much that a new building was necessary, and South Side High School was built.

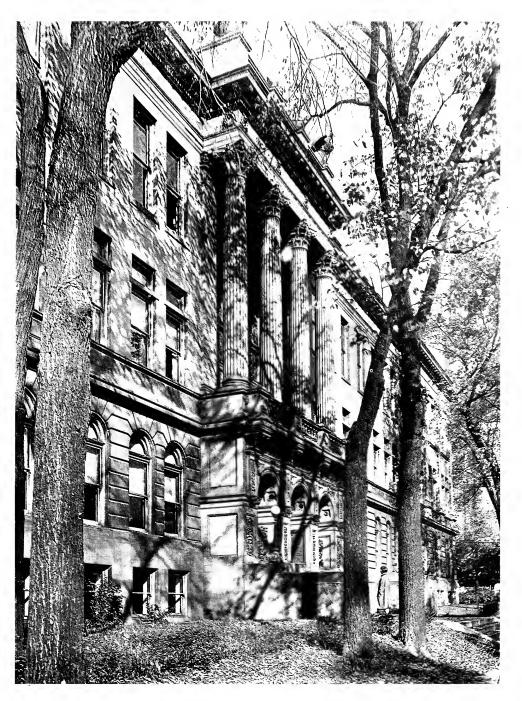

Constantly increasing enrollment will

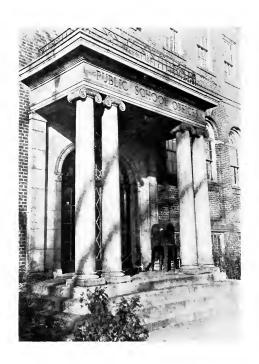

High School came into existence.

Five years later the halls of both schools were again thronged with students. Another building was needed, and in 1927 North Side result in an addition to Central next year; we look forward to enjoying a new cafeteria. a spacious study hall, shops, and welllighted class rooms. Plans are underway for a stone building to be located on the site of the Hamilton homestead.

FORT WAYNE'S FIRST HIGH SCHOOL

Symbolic of the new architectural beauty stands the new Administration Building, with cool, tall pillars, carefully-groomed lawns, bushes, and flowers. Within its halls and offices we find the architect and draftsmen of all our school work.

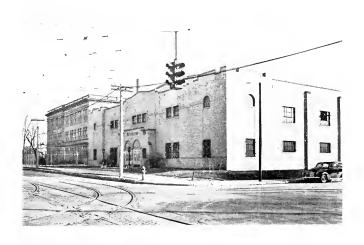

The old walls of this historic home have in past years witnessed the happenings in the Hamilton family groups. Since their departure the old home has housed Central's clubs, some home rooms, and classes. This beautiful Hamilton homestead has long been one of Central's best friends.

Pleasant, inspiring, and pulsing with life is this view—do you wonder that art students create such lovely bits when they have only to step to the windows to watch the world go by?

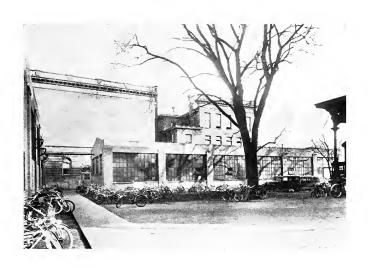

The gray, stately walls of Central—with its 45 classrooms filled every period—what hilarity, laughter, and fun has been intermingled with the four years of work and play within these walls!

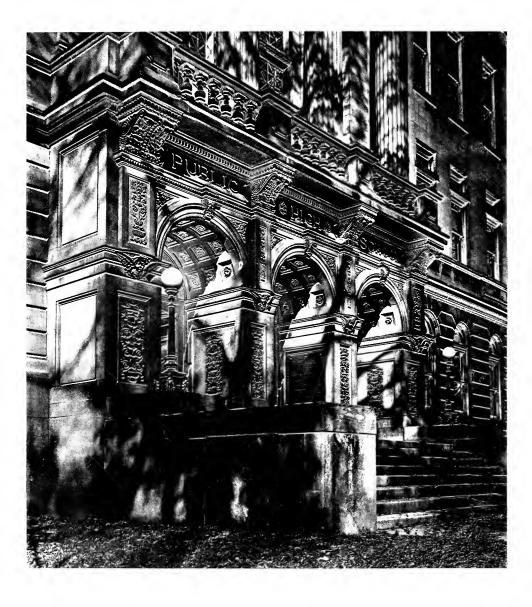

Central's famous gym from which our athletes emerge

The gym serves all, for during the spring it loses its athletic atmosphere amid the soft lights, sweet music, and beautiful decorations of school dances.

Bicycles—as much a part of Central as the pupils who ride them

Here they stand for hours, immobile, as if with folded wings, until their lively owners whirl them away down the alley in the worst bicycle traffic imaginable.

Sunlight and shadows play fitfully upon the majestic Barr Street entrance from whose doors emerge many of Fort Wayne's best citizens.

THEN INISTRATION

The Architect -- Mr. Abbett

By Eldon Baker

Mr. Merle J. Abbett, Superintendent of the Fort Wayne Public Schools, was born in Franklin, Indiana. He was graduated from the Franklin College with his A.B. Degree and later was graduated from Columbia University with his Master's Degree. He has held many positions in the Indiana schools; his latest before coming to Fort Wayne being the superintendency of the Bedford schools.

Mr. Abbett's greatest pleasure lies in the help and the assistance he gives to the young people of the schools. He is deeply interested in the Guidance, Vocational, and Expansion programs which are being used more extensively in the schools.

Enthusiastic about every school activity, he is especially interested in sports, and he has attended almost every Central game, given inspiring talks at pep sessions, presented trophies, and even accompanied the boys to the "showers", to commend and counsel, for he himself has been both a player and a coach.

Our superintendent keeps his finger on the pulse of each of the 23 public schools in Fort Wayne, and his boundless energy and enthusiasm are a wonder to all who work with him.

For relaxation, Mr. Abbett, spends his time in a northern fishing camp where he meets many professional people and catches some big fish. His most enjoyable outside interests are the Chamber of Commerce, the Quest Club and the Rotary Club. He served as president of the Rotary Club for two terms. Under his leadership the Rotarians recently held their annual state convention in this city.

The First Presbyterian Church claims him as Sunday School Superintendent.

He is listed in Who's Who in America and Who's Who in Education.

The sketches of Mr. Abbett and Mr. Croninger were made by one of Central's finest artists, Nick Collias. He is an outstanding member of the Art Club, is on the Poster Committee of the Booster Club, and is a member of the National Honor Society. We shall miss him when he leaves us this June.

Our Master Builder - Mr. Croninger

Ey Morris Jones

Twenty-four years ago Fred H. Croninger made his debut in the Fort Wayne public school system as a teacher of mathematics in Central High School, then known as the Fort Wayne High School; today he enjoys the distinction of being the oldest principal in the point of service in the city.

Born in Green Springs, Ohio, Mr. Croninger spent his boyhood on a nearby farm, attended country grade school, Republic (Ohio) High School, and was graduated from Heidelberg University (Tiffin, Ohio) in 1905. After teaching at Deshler and Vermilion, Ohio, and Bluffton, Indiana, Mr. Croninger came to Fort Wayne in 1913 as a math teacher.

By 1918 he had risen to the position of head of the mathematics department, and in 1921, when the late L. C. Ward became Superintendent of the Fort Wayne Public Schools, Mr. Croninger was appointed to the principal-ship of the school. Under his tactful and efficient guidance Central High has grown rapidly, until now in 1937 she boasts a teaching staff of sixty-three, an enrollment of over 1800 pupils, a fine library, two gymnasiums, a printing shop, and numerous other facilities for the express purpose of developing qualities of leadership and service in every student.

It is the sincere belief of Mr. Croninger that the aim of the modern school is "to teach folks how to live intelligent, healthy, and talented lives". He is emphatically in favor of athletics and extra-curricular activities in the school, because "they bring out qualities in the student untouched in the classroom". His hobbies are tennis, basketball, volleyball, chess, croquet, swimming, and traveling. He also reads a great deal, his favorite authors being Van Dyke, Tennyson, Sheldon, and Wallace, the author of "Ben Hur". Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, Booker T. Washington, and Dwight Lyman Moody, the religious leader, exemplify his ideal men.

These are the highlights in the life of our principal, Mr. Croninger, who through the splendid services he has rendered Central has won the heartiest best wishes of all who have passed through the portals of Central High School.

Miss Lewis:

Miss Lewis, our dean of girls, came to Central in 1924 under Mr. Ward's superintendency and for two years she taught some classes in English, besides her work as Dean. Since then she concerned herself with administrative work.

After receiving her A. B.

at Indiana, Miss Lewis took extensive post-graduate work at Columbia University, Chicago University, and other leading institutions.

Before coming to Fort Wayne, Miss Lewis was Dean of Girls and assisant principal in Anderson High School.

Because of her wide teaching experience in high schools and grade schools, she is able to deal effectively with the many problems that arise daily in her work.

She is a sympathetic helper and is always willing to assist every pupil in working out a solution of his problem. Miss Lewis's contribution to the school is invaluable, and we shall all remember her long after we leave Central.

Miss Chapin:

Interesting, yet tedious routine work is Miss Chapin's contribution to Central. Though she has never taught since coming here, she has become a very essential part of our school. Besides filling out program cards, she sells street car passes, sends telephone messages, and returns lost articles. No one will leave Central without a pleasant picture tucked away in his memory of Miss Chapin, moving quietly about the office getting work done efficiently and on time.

Our Foundation

By Mary Farrell

Undoubtedly, the most important part of dear Central is the very capable faculty. All of these instructors have had considerable training and experience in their respective fields.

In the English department, although only three years are necessary for graduation, many students take advantage of the full four year course. Mrs. Vera Lane has headed this department for a number of years. Her enthusiastic assistants are: the Misses M. Ruth Brown, Hazel Hawkins, Marian Ingham, Catherine Jackson, Florence Lucasse, Eva McKinnie, Edna Smith, Rosza Tonkel, and Katherine V. Welch; and the Messrs. Meredith C. Aldred, R. K. Butler, and Albert A. Coil. The department offers a wide variety of courses to suit all types of students. Mr. Coil also has charge of public speaking and debating.

Miss Marjory Suter is the dramatics instructor in all three high schools of Fort Wayne, and heads the Student Players' Clubs. Miss Mary Harrah heads the Latin department and is ably assisted by the Misses McKinme and Lucasse. Miss Mildred J. Brigham instructs Centralites in the French tongue, while Mr. L. A. Stroebel teaches his native German.

Quite a rounded course of science is offered at Central. Mr. C. D. Dilts teaches chemistry, Mr. Aldred, botany, Miss Blanche Nielsen has physicial and commercial geography classes and Mr. Harry Veatch teaches physics. Mr. Dilts also teaches biology as does Mr. Dorsa Yoder. Miss Amy S. Barnes is the health instructor.

In the Home Economics department the Misses Gertrude Keep and Edna Smith teach cooking. Miss Maple Byers teaches sewing. Both beginning and advanced classes are offered.

Mr. Robert Wyatt heads the history department and assisting him are the Misses Leah Austin, Virginia Kinnaird, Vera Pence, Mary Catherine Smeltzly and Mrs. Greta Grissell, also the Messrs. Maurice Ashley, Willis Richardson, and Irvin C. Tonkel.

Miss Mary E. Gardner heads the mathematics department. Her able assistants are Miss Marie Christman, the Messrs. Charles Turpin, Ralph Virts, and Gaylord Kurtz. Mathematics ranges from general math and algebra to the advanced courses including trigonometry.

About 800 student hours are spent per day in training pupils for a business life. The instructors in the commercial department are: Miss Esther Thomas, the Messrs. John R. Jones, Harry B. Immel, L. A. Johnson, and L. A. Stroebel. Classes are taught in junior business training, bookkeeping, shorthand, typing and business English.

For decorations around school and in our publications, we are responsible to our art department. The art teachers are the Misses Mary Zent and Ruth Wilkening.

Mr. Gaston Baihle is Central's maestro. In his music work, he has developed remarkably live glee clubs, orchestra, band and an A'Capella Choir. Mr. Baihle has placed Central Musicians in the Civic Symphony which he conducts.

Miss Gertrude Beierlein presides over our school library, which is quite convenient in furnishing reference material and recreational reading. She has several student assistants during the day.

The huge task of checking attendance goes to Miss Helen Hilgemann who also has charge of Room 1 most of the day. She gives tardy slips by the dozens.

The industrial department trains boys in several fields as in mechanical drawing, aeronautics, auto mechanics, electricity, woodwork, machine shop and printing. George H. Russell is supervisor. Others in this department are Messrs. Stout, Welbaum, Cleaver, Hemphill, Wilson, White and Shackleford.

Miss Meribah Ingham and Miss Emma Adams are the girls' physical education instructors. Various seasoned sports as well as folk, tap, and ballroom dancing are taught. Every spring an exhibition of class work is given.

The man who produces such excellent football and basketball teams, Murray Mendenhall, has charge of boys' physical education. He is assisted by Bob Dornte, a former Central star.

Dignified as they seem in classrooms, these teachers also have their fun. In September they picnic at Foster Park; in December our teachers bring their families together to enjoy a Christmas party in the school. This year they shared their beautiful Christmas tree with the student body before the party. They cook, play games, and visit at the annual May breakfast at Franke Park, their final social function of the year. Besides these school activities, many of our faculty take prominent parts in the civic life of Fort Wayne by membership in various local organizations.

Our Main Floor -- the Seniors

By Emily Jagow

In 1933 the doors of Central opened to the class of 1937 who selected James Koegel president, aided by Alfred Falk, vice-president, Mary McAnlis, secretary-treasurer, and Lloyd Altekruse, Jame Bash, Jeanne Bratt, Dorothy Zentz, and Mae Rose Slagle, social council. Miss Marian Ingham and Mr. Turpin were chosen advisers. The most important activity was the freshman party in November.

As sophomores, the class elected the following officers: president, James Koegel; vice-president, Jame Bash; secretary-treasurer, Paul Ream. The social council consisted of Karl Pappert, Mary McAnlis, Donna Neu, Edith Reusch and Elizabeth Lanier. With the aid of their able advisers, Miss Zent and Mr. Ashley, the George Washington Tea Dance was an outstanding event.

Another year passed, and they were juniors. Upon Irving Latz was bestowed the class presidency, with Karl Pappert, vice-president, and James Koegel, secretary-treasurer, assisted by the social council, Jack Paul, Elizabeth Lanier, Jane Bash, Anne Boehme, and Edith Reusch. With the help of Miss Smeltzly and Mr. Cleaver, advisers, a tea dance, the Reindeer Romp, given on December 6, was a huge success. At the Junior Prom honoring Seniors, Dorothy Staley was crowned Queen by Beatrice Call, 1935 Prom Queen, amidst tropical decorations, featuring an "Hawaiian Paradise."

In their senior year Jim Koegel was elected president for his third term. Karl Pappert was chosen vice-president, Anne Boehme, secetary-treasurer, and Mary McAnlis, Margie J. Miller, John Davies, Jack Paul, Robert Nathan, Jane Bash, Mary Lou Cory and Clara Rhodes, social council. Miss Hawkins and Mr. Cleaver were selected advisers. The comedy, "Once There Was a Princess," and Senior-Caldron Vod-Vil, were their successful winter activities.

On Wednesday, June 2, the seniors will hold the annual kid day. At the afternoon party in the boys' gym fluffy dresses, gay hair ribbons, half sox, over-alls and shorts will replace the regular school clothes as the 293 dignified seniors romp and shout. All-day suckers and cokes, jumping ropes and balls will take the place of customary books and pencils for one care-free day.

As we go to press, the senior class is eagerly looking forward to the activities of Commencement week beginning June 6 with the Baccalaureate Services preached by Rev. S. A. Witmer, a 1917 graduate of Central, now Dean of the Bible Training School: and the Parent-Teachers' Association Senior banquet on June 7, the only time that parents, teachers, and students really get together in one social hour. The usual prophecy and history are read; Mr. Croninger returns the trinkets that he has taken from various seniors during their four years: and parents and seniors both express their appreciation of Central and their regrets at leaving. On June 10, the graduation will be followed by the Senior Dance, featuring a southern plantation scene, to be held in the school gymnasium.

Mr. Cleaver, Miss Hawkins.

National Honor Society

National Honor Society pins are awarded each year to seniors who measure up to the society's requirements of character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Every teacher votes on the seniors who are in the upper third of their class. Those who receive enough votes are announced as members of the National Honor Society by the board of teachers appointed to count votes. Miss Harrah is the chairman of this committee.

Our Second Floor - the Juniors

By Betty Bitner and Jeff Michell

Last October the Junior class chose as president, Robert Reese, an honor student who came from Franklin school; Ed O'Rourke, 1937 business manager of the Caldron, as vice-president; and Betty Bitner, secretary-treasurer.

Our social council includes many capable juniors; Bill Spackman, a stage manager; Marian Cabler, honor student and member of Student Players' Club; Jeff Michell, varsity yell leader, and sophomore class president; Jane Masursky, member of Vagabond Club; and Bob Kaag, of the stage crew. For advisers the executive board chose Miss Tonkel and Mr. Wyatt.

First row—R. Reese, J. Michell, Miss Tonkel, J. Masursky, B. Bitner, M. Cabler, Mr. Wyatt. Second row—R. Kaag, E. O'Rourke, W. Spackman,

In Central's band and orchestra we see Berton Bolyard, drum major; Virginia Cowan; Le-Roy Gerke; Ellsworth Seltenright; Frederick Kreibaum; Jessie Bradford, and Blanche Cline.

Many of our juniors hold important positions on the school paper. Thelma Springer, freshman secretary-treasurer, is Managing Editor. Others on the staff are Robert Goodman, Jeanne Fox, Marie Rittenhouse, Jean Bergquist, Anna Nordyke, Salem Shaheen, and James Major. Herschel O'Shaughnessey, our freshman president, is a sport writer on both the Spotlight and Caldron.

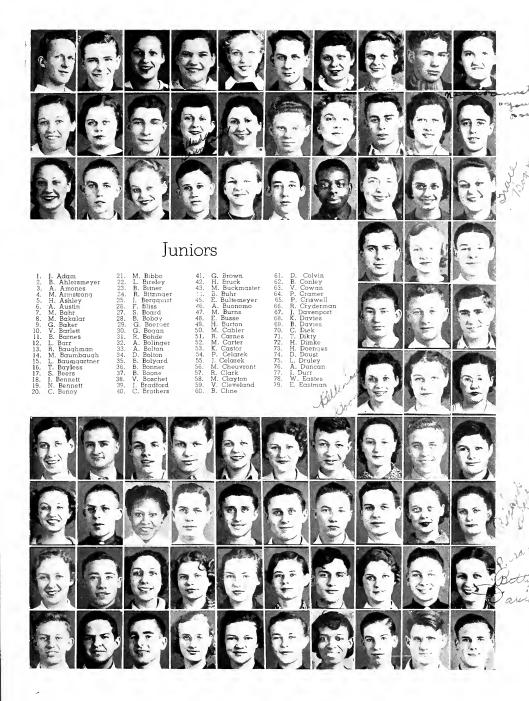

Next year Kathryn Goodwin, Kenneth Castor, Ann Krugh will continue to win forensic honors. Junior athletes include Frank Celarek, Joe Celarek, George Lantz, Bill Hanley, and Don Huth. Prominent girls who participate in athletics are Mary Hattersley, Anne Tucker, Nelly Rohrbaugh, Beryl Conley, Lucille Baumgartner, Dorothy Hartman, and Grace Bogan.

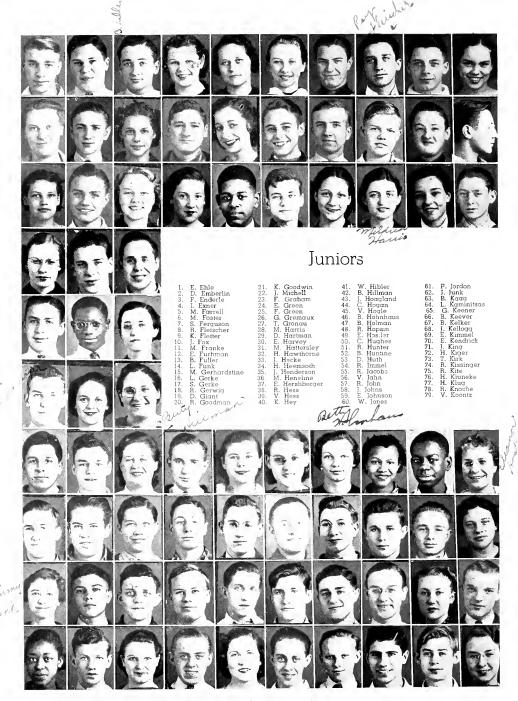

On the junior honor roll we find Jean Bergquist, Marjorie Burns, Earl Busse, Marian Cabler, Margaret Carter, Virginia Cowan, Doris Doust, Mary Farrell, Jeanne Fox, Betty Fuller, Kathryn Goodman, Edgar Hershberger, Betty Hillman, Paul Jordan, Frederick Klaehn, Adelma Martin, Rosalie O'Connor, Edward O'Rourke, Herschel O'Shaughnessey, Richard Ostman, Harold Patterson, Robert Reesp, John Reiling, George Reed, Marie Rittenhouse, Maxine Riley, Marcia Roop, Vernold Schmidt, Donald Solleberger, and Anne Tucker.

As juniors it was their privilege to sponsor the annual Junior Prom. To raise money for this they conducted a very successful cookie sale, selling 759 dozen butter-scotch cookies. On May 15 the gym was transformed into a veritable vineyard with grapes on white paper lattice and purple balloons suspended from the ceiling. The featured event was the crowning of Betty Bitner as Prom Queen by Dorothy Staley, 1936 Queen.

Our Third Floor - the Sophomores

By Jeanne Patrick

The long journey of the class of '39 toward its goal, graduation, began in February, 1935, when 154 students from the grade schools all over Fort Wayne entered the portals of Central. In September about twice that number of pupils entered this class. As no freshman class officers were chosen, the first class election was held in October, 1936, when Charles Rothschild was chosen president of the sophomore class; Kenneth Rice, vice-president; and Theodora Collias, secretary-treasurer. These officers, with the social council consisting of Robert Gross, Harrison Richardson, Mary Frances Lauer, Richard Koenig and Jean Junk, chose Miss McKinnie and Mr. Aldred as class advisers.

During the fall, the members of the class became acquainted with one another and on December 11th they succeeded, with the help of the officers and student council members, in making the class Christmas party α success. The Christmas spirit was emphasized by α tree and artificial snow scenes, which decorated the girls' gymnasium where kid games were played.

On January 25, 1937, 450 sophomores entered junior life while 21 of the class were on the honor roll, namely William Ahrens, Phyllis Allender, Eldon Baker, William Bauermeister, Mary Lou Berkey, Robert Bultemeyer, Robert Cunningham, Robert Duell, John Ember, Burdella Felts, Frances Graft, Mary Lauer, Luella Mattes, Lester Merica, Elda Mertz, Kenneth Rice, Kathryn Simon, Lena Stephans, William Trumbower, Frederick Wolf, and Agnes Yarnelle.

Our first class activity for this year was held on April 16th in the form of a skating party at Bell's Rink. The officers made up the committee here, also, and with the help of a large number of the students of our class of '39, the party was made a success.

First row—Mr. Aldred, M. Lauer, C. Rothschild, Miss Mc-Kinnie, K. Rice, R. Gross.
Second row—R. Koenig, J. Junk, T. Collias.

We are proud of the members of our class of '39, which has brought forth many outstanding students, such as Raymond Heine and Robert Duell on the debate team, Richard Van Camp as an up and coming cheer leader, Harrison Richardson and Kenneth Rice in athletics, Sis Arnold and Maxine Waters in girls' sports, Melva O'Shaughnessey in C. T. C., Mary Lauer in Spotlight publications, Eldon Baker in the orchestra. Charles Laymon in the Harmonica Band. Burdella Felts has always been in the Honor Society and Kathryn Simon in the Booster Club, while Josephine Freigy won third place in the poster contest, held during the sectional tournament.

Winners of the sophomore extemporaneous speaking contest were Raymond Heine and I. C. Stevens.

Our Nursery -- the Freshmen

By Dorothy Davies

Standing—W. Racine, T. Bakalar, R. Nash, M. Dornte, B. Bienz, B. Doenges.
Inset—Miss Kinnaird.

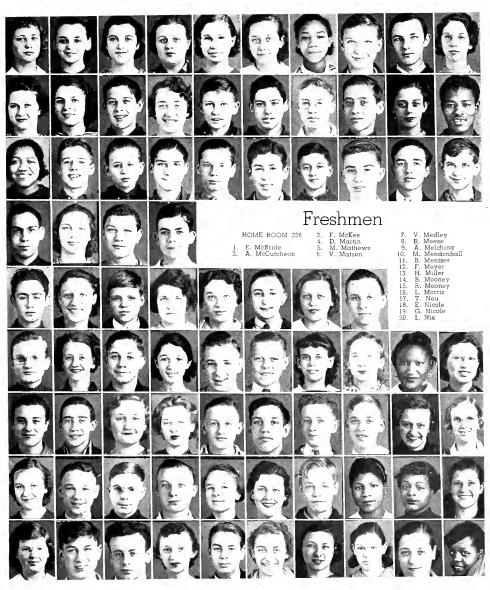

The class of 1940 is an enthusiastic group and has already proved that its members are true Centralites. At the pep session given in October especially for the freshmen, they showed their real Central spirit by learning the school yells and songs and later by putting this knowledge to use at pep session and games. About two hundred freshmen attended the class party given in the girls' gymnasium in February. The party proved to be a success in fun and money.

At the election of class officers, Robert Bienz was named president; Harold Masursky, vice-president; Dorothy Davies, secretary-treasurer; and Theodore Bakalar, Eulalia Bermes, Billie Ann Deatrick, Byron Doenges, Rosemary Edelen, Betty James, Louise Jean, Robert Nash, Tom O'Rourke, Wanda Racine, and Betty Lou Stetter, social council members. Miss Virginia Kinnaird and Mr. Robert Dornte were chosen class advisers.

The class of '40 is active in various school and extra-curricular activities. The cheerleaders from this class are lack Grenzenbach. Eugene Nicole, and Everett Schmidt. Over one hundred freshmen girls and the same number of boys took part in after-school basketball practice and about seventy boys went out for football. Fealing Talley, one of the best known freshmen athletes, was the only freshman to receive a Central sweater this season. The '40 class has two of its members, Dick Butler and Tom Heller, in the Boosters' Club, while twenty freshmen are members of the Central band and nineteen are in the orchestra. Iulia Cowan represented the class as little Hazel Boyd in the Senior Play. The winners of the freshmen extemporaneous speech contest were Rose Hess, first, and Jean Lee, second. The '40 class is also represented in the Spotlight by David Skory, Harry Meads, Bob Eastes, Mildred Gardiner, Jack Grenzenbach, Betty Miller, and Betty Lou Stetter. Bill Latz, a camera enthusiast, won honors in a photography contest with pictures he took on his father's farm.

Those on the semester honor roll were Mildred Butts, Esther Charlton, Dorothy Davies, Maxine Davis, Duwayne Green, Norine Kauffman, Walter Lyle, Harold Masursky, Geraldine Miller, Neva Nagel, Robert Nash, Phyllis Sommers, Gloria Temple, Hope Warner, and Maxine Wass.

Many of the class have not been absent or tardy since coming to Central. Twenty-two freshmen made the second six weeks' honor roll, Viola Kaiser and Gloria Belle Temple leading.

Our Boosters Boost

By Anne Boehme

One of the largest and most active clubs in Central is the Booster Club composed of representatives from each organization and class. John Davies was the chairman elected this year, and he appointed Anne Boehme as secretary.

The Boosters' activities begin with the football season. Some members sell at the stand and others sell through the crowd. Candy, weiners, gum, and coca-cola are sold. Throughout the football and basketball seasons, committees put up decorations.

The annual Booster banquet is the first social affair for the club members. At the close of the football season, the Tiger Mixer is held in the girls' gymnasium for which every football season ticket includes a ticket.

With the basketball season comes another period of activity for the Boosters. Besides the stand-duty, there is the pop-com machine which requires attention. During the season favors are made from blue and white crepe paper which are given to fans.

Each year the Boosters hold a Valentine Pep Session in honor of the Basketball team. This year the girls attired in red and white rode on bicycles, delivering a heart shaped box of candy to each of the team, Mr. Croninger, Miss Brigham, Mr. Arnold, Mr. Bailhe, Mr. Mendenhall, Mr. Dornte, and Mr. Abbett.

At the end of the basketball season comes the annual Tiger Hop. This year's theme was "Paris in the Spring."

In May the Booster Club for the next school year is announced; the final activity is an all-day picnic at a nearby lake.

Vagabonding---Around the World in One Hundred and Eighty Days

By Marie Franke

As most of us cannot travel to all parts of the world, the Vagabond club offers the next best thing. Since 1932 the 50 travel-minded students in this club have taken great pleasure in traveling through all countries of the world.

The regular meetings feature book reviews, pictures, talks, and letters from foreign correspondents. This year talks were given by Miss Thomas, Miss Smeltzly, Maxine Riley, and Jane Pollak on their trips during the 1936 summer vacation. Letters from Japan and one from Malayis written to Marquerite Baker in reply to her article in the Etude were read. Pictures on "Home Life of the Puritans in America" and "Different Types of Homes" were shown. Jeff Michell told of English customs showing pictures of that country.

As the feature event of this year's program a banquet was held December 9 at the Woman's Club, where each past president told of the work of the club under his leadership. Miss Austin, honor speaker, discussed her trip to Europe during the summer of 1936. Other honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pollak, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Croninger, and Miss Gertrude Beierlein. At this time Miss Thomas presented Central Library with eighteen travel books from the Vagabonds. Dolls dressed in the native costumes of various countries made the banquet realistic. Marion Hillyer, Betty Geary, Rose Masursky; Genevieve Boerger, Margie J. Miller, Clara Rhodes; Jeff Michell, and Jane Pollak aided Miss Smeltzly in making the banquet a huge success.

At Thanksgiving two well-filled baskets were sent to Wheatley Center. Another interesting activity sponsored by the Vagabonds was a skating party on January 8 at Bell's Rink.

A plan for the Youth Hostelry was presented to the club by Miss Menzie of South Side. The plan is to travel during the day on special trails, cook your own meals, and spend the night at some camp or farmhouse.

The committees for this semester are: Program, Joyce Lord, Armella Nix, Leona Zweig, Bob Cunningham, Karl Hey; Publicity, Jane Pollak, Clara Rhodes, Irene Krot, Blanche Cline, Jeanne Bratt; Service, Betty Raquet, Betty Bitner; Ways and Means, Betty Gearrey, Marion Hillyer, Dorothy Sheets, Phyllis Allender, Fritz Wolf, Bob Shull; Door, Bob Stoddard, Maxine Riley; Membership, George Reed, Jane Masursky, Helen Mertz, Genevieve Boerger, Margie J. Miller, Jeff Michell.

Officers for the first semester were: Jeff Michell, president; Jane Pollak, vice-president; Marion Hillyer, secretary; and George Reed, treasurer. Those for this semester are Emily Jagow, president; Ed Richardson, vice-president; Marie Franke, secretary; and Francis Bliss, treasurer.

Sisters of Friendship

By Jeanette Jones

Friendship Club is the High School Girl Reserve club of Central to which all junior and senior girls are eligible. For the last five years Miss Pence has assisted the club.

Last summer several girls from Central attended conference at Camp Yarnelle at which time they learned a great deal about club work, and this winter, putting their knowledge into practice, they have helped the club to have a successful year.

At the beginning of each semester the cabinet meets with the cabinets of the other high school clubs of the city in setting-up conferences either at Camp Yarnelle or at the Y. W. C. A.

Approximately fifty girls have belonged to Friendship Club this year. We had varied meetings, a picnic in the fall, special Thanksgiving and Christmas celebrations, membership parties at the beginning of each semester, Valentine, St. Patrick and Easter meetings. In our World Fellowship project we did special work concerning Indian Lore. For service work the club gave Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets and contributed to the needlework guild.

One of our most outstanding projects this year was our Christmas service work. With some financial help from Miss Harrah and the liberal contributions of the girls of the Friendship Club we bought many lovely presents. These gifts, with some children's clothing given us by the home economics department, were given to a family recommended by the Journal-Gazette.

The officers for the two semesters were: president, Jeanette Jones; vice-president, first, Helen Mertz; second, Anne Boehme; secretary, first, Dwayne Shearer; second, Rose Masursky; treasurer, first, Rose Masursky; second, Helen Mertz. Other girls who have been on the cabinet this year are: Jane Pollak, Margie J. Miller, Estella Graft, Dorothy Zeigler, Velma Torbeck, Juanita Radebaugh, Emily Jagow, and Dorothy Roach.

Reaching Toward the Highest

By Jo Freigy

To give every freshman and sophomore girl a chance to express her ideals, to make new acquaintances, and to develop her powers of leadership are the purposes of the Central Triangle Club.

Each member is on some committee and each committee in rotation provides a program and entertainment for the meetings held in club rooms on alternate Thursdays. A membership tea opened the fall activities, followed by a Kid Party and rough initiation early in November.

Part of the meetings are social, such as the Tea Dance, which was given as a joint project with the Friendship Club, the sister Girl Reserve organization. In November the C. T. C. had a hayride, followed by a social hour at the Y. W. C. A. Guests from both North Side and South Side were included in the party.

Together with the Friendship Club the C. T. C. arranged the specialties and engaged the orchestra for the annual dance after the Sectional Tournament at North Side High School by the joint Girl Reserve clubs of the three high schools.

As service work also plays an important part in the Girl Reserve activity, at Christmas time and at Thanksgiving the girls contribute baskets of food to the needy. They also fill their quota of work for the Needlework Guild.

Officers for the first semester were: president, Lois Brower; vice-president, Mary Frances Lauer; secretary, Mary Helen Kelly, and treasurer, Elda Mertz.

The second semester officers were: president, Lenna Bell Arnold; vice-president, Lois Brower; secretary, Gladys Hunt, and treasurer, Josephine Freigy. Miss Ruth Wilkening is adviser for this organization which includes more than fifty members.

At the general Girl Reserve Conference between semesters it was decided that during the coming weeks the clubs would learn something about Indiana. In March the Central Triangle Club was fortunate in having as a guest speaker Mrs. Frank Roberts, who gave a most interesting talk on Little Turtle. To further the feeling of good-will with the Indians of today, C. T. C. girls decided to send gifts to Indian children on a Western Reservation.

Miss Zelah Heinbaugh, secretary of the Y. W. C. A., gave an interesting talk during one of the April meetings.

The last meeting of the year was held in the form of a picnic at Foster Park. Games were played and refreshments were served in the pavilion.

Hoosier Lovers

By Lou Scherer

Indiana Club, once a month, under the leadership of Mr. Richardson.

This year's activities include a picnic at Foster Park in October, the "Bon-fire Shuffle" in November, and a trip through the Lincoln Museum, the largest Lincoln library in the world. At one meeting Mr. Coil read poems of James Whitcomb Riley.

As a part of their service program they gave a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family and boxes of Christmas candy to the Children's Home. They have a scrap-book to contain the club's history and studies of Indiana.

This year's officers, are: president, Irene Heim; vice-president, Betty Geary; secretary, Lou Scherer; Anita Leonard, refreshments, and Bob Speckman succeeds Richard Teeter as program chairman.

They Also Serve

By Jeanne Bratt

On October 16, 1936, a new club, the "Library Service Group" was begun by Miss Beierlein, the school librarian. Every member upholds the club's motto, "Ut possim," meaning "That I may be of service."

Membership in this club may be gained by any student who has taken the course in library science for at least one semester, and who works in the library.

A constitution stating the name of the club, the requirements for membership and holding office, and embodying a plan for two social meetings a semester has been drafted by the club.

There are sixteen members in the club, the chosen officers being Margaret Sheehan, president, and Jeanne Bratt, secretary.

Sorosis

By Mary Farrell

The purposes of Sorosis, a literary society supervised by Miss Katherine Welch, are to stimulate interest in literary works, and to provide a profitable way for spending leisure time.

At meetings held every two weeks on Thursday, committees presented programs including the novelists, Sinclair Lewis, Edna Ferber, and Pearl Buck. Sorosis also went in a party to see the Jitney Players in Sheridan's, "The Rivals," October 16.

President Mary Lou Cory had these assistants for the fall semester: Betty Lyons, vice-president; Jeanne Fox, secretary, and Velma Torbeck, treasurer. For the spring semester the officers were: president, Mary Farrell; vice-president, Jean Bergquist; secretary, Marie Franke, and treasurer, Rose Masursky.

Our Youthful Delvers

By Mary Przebindowski

Delvers Club was organized in the fall of 1935. The club was named Delvers for the members, delvers into literature.

The club is open to freshmen and sophomore girls who can maintain a B grade in English. The officers last semester were: president, Betty Payton; vice-president, Elda Mertz; secretary, Mary Przebindowski, and treasurer, Ruth Cottingham. The officers this semester are: president, Betty Payton; vice-president, Sarah Stettler; secretary, Barbara Curtis; treasurer, Elda Mertz.

Interesting programs including book reviews, interviews and discussions were arranged by various girls. At the opening of the year the group saw "Anthony Adverse" and later discussed the picture and the book. During the Christmas season the club had a Mother-Dauchter Tea.

Math Club

By Anne Tucker

Students completing one year of algebra and one semester of plane geometry are eligible for membership in the Math Club.

Features of this year's program includes an interesting trip through the Weather Bureau offices, Miss Gardner's account of her trip to Boulder Dam, and the demonstration of the oscillograph by Mr. Wilson, the Solar System by Mr. Turpin, Acoustics by Mr. Kurtz, and History of Mechanical Devices by Miss Christman.

Officers for the first and second semesters were: president, A. Falk, G. Reed; vice-president, M. McAnlis, M. Farrell; secretary, M. Farrell, M. Rittenhouse; treasurer, G. Gunter, L. Gerke.

The advisers are Misses Gardner and Christman, Messrs. Turpin and Kurtz.

The Argonauts

By Jane Pollak

The Argonauts, under the leadership of Misses Harrah, Lucasse, and McKinnie, was formed in 1933. The club was entertained this year with a variety of programs including a play, "One More Love Gone Wrong" with Betty Lou Stetter, Jane Abbott, Jane Pollak, Charles Rothschild, Russell Buchan, and Fred Wolf, a series of talks on Roman life by Charles Rothschild, Leone Zweig, and Jim Bond, and a talk by Miss Austin on "Roman Influence in England."

The first semester's officers were: Alfred Falk, first-consul; Russell Buchan, second consul, Jeanne Patrick, quaestor-scriba. Those selected for the second semester were: Jane Pollak, first-consul; Charles Rothschild, second-consul; Jean Bergquist, quaestor-scriba.

The Cream of the Crop

By Geraldine Bacon

Honor Society, since its establishment in 1928, has had a large membership composed of students who have made the semester honor roll. The purpose of this organization is to give special recognition to students who have gained high scholastic records and to stimulate others to secure good grades.

For inspiration, Mrs. Bessie K. Roberts spoke on Little Turtle, and Miss Lewis read stories she had written.

Officers of the Honor Society for the first semester were: president, Robert Williams; vice-president, Mary Farrell; secretary-treasurer, Charles Rothschild. The present officers are: president, Geraldine Bacon; vice-president, Robert Reese; secretary-treasurer, Elda Mertz. Advisers of the society are Miss Mary Harrah and R. K. Butler,

Our Interior Decorators

By Jane Bash

Meetings of the Art Club, whose adviser is Mary Zent, are of interest to its members through their variety, with discussions of famous artists, and demonstrations of art work.

Christmas decorations in the second floor hall were an innovation of the club this year. Full length windows showing nativity scenes, festoons of greens along the bannisters, and a huge Christmas tree before a star-studded blue drop brought forth such exclamations of delight that the Art Club has decided to continue this practice annually.

Their annual Valentine Tea Dance featuring huge valentines as decorations was another great success.

Officers were: president, Jane Bash; vicepresident, Theodora Collias; secretary, Betty Bitner, and treasurer, Jean Larimore.

The Central Hi-Y Club

By Maurice Snyder

Hi-Y Club, whose purposes is to create, maintain, and extend high standards of character, holds its meetings every Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. Prominent speakers on programs included Mr. L. A. Schwan, Mr. Glen A. Black, Mr. John Roth, Mr. Earl Groth, and Mr. John Richardson. Their social activities were: A Boy-Girl party at the "Y," a potluck of the three Hi-Y Clubs of the City at South Side, α hay-ride to Blackman Lake, and two skatting parties. The most outstanding event was the 4 C's campaign, of March 15 to 21.

Officers of the club were: president, R. Spackman, W. Winters; vice-president, W. Winters, M. Snyder; secretary, Maurice Snyder, C. Brothers; treasurer, V. John, B. Spackman; chaplain, G. Ottenweller, R. Williams.

Central Torch Club

By Dick Butler

Because the junior and senior boys' Hi-Y Club proved so popular, the Y. M. C. A. formed the junior Hi-Y in 1917 for the freshman and sophomore boys.

Activities of the club this year included addresses by Mr. Cherry, Dr. C. B. Parker and other prominent men; trips through the Perfection Biscuit Company; General Electric; motion pictures; potlucks; and fun nights. The Hi-Y and Torch Clubs sponsored Clean Sportsmanship, Speech, Living, and Scholarship campaign. Torch Club meets every Tuesday evening in the "Y."

The present officers are: pres., Robert Cunningham; vice-pres., Dick Butler, and sec'ytreas., Tom Heller. Last semester the officers chosen were: pres., R. Van Camp; vice-pres., Robert Cunningham, and sec'y-treas., Dick Butler.

The Makers of the Book

By Jean Bergquist

To make the 1937 Caldron twice as large and interesting with the hope of enticing twice as many subscribers, many volunteers set to work and won their positions by competition.

In October the Staff launched a subscription campaign under the direction of Irving Latz, senior, and George Reed, junior. Fired with enthusiasm, five representatives of the Caldron attended the National Scholastic Press Convention in December at Detroit to obtain new ideas for working out the book. Mary McAnlis, Virginia Cowan, Mary Hattersley, Ed O'Rourke, George Reed, and Miss Ingham. Returning they shared their inspirations with others at a potluck supper in the school cafeteria.

Raising money then being of foremost importance, the staff got busy. Student pictures and frames were sold. The Caldron held a Thanksgiving Tea Dance in the girls' gym and later a May Day Tea Dance. Other money makers were a candy sale at the Senior-Caldron Vodvil and chances on a step-guessing contest in which Van Stover won a free Caldron.

Publicity played a leading part; Ruth Rasp furnished ideas for the posters which were made by Josephine Freigy; Charles Rothschild and Charles Laymon acted as sandwich men in halls, cafeteria, and around the school. As an economy measure and for fun, Ed O'Rourke took many pictures used in this book.

From the small monthly magazine of 1909, the Caldron grew to an annual in 1919. Through the years it has been largely a senior publication. This year, however, starting with new advisers, Miss Marian Ingham and Miss Wilkening, art adviser, and an entirely new membership, the staff with Mary McAnlis as editor, has endeavored to present a yearbook representing the entire school. A representative was chosen from each club or organization to write his club story. Snapshots were furnished by various students, and pictures of underclassmenwere featured.

M's and M's of Copy Come From 'Em

By Mary Lou Cory

Because of the transfer of last year's Spotlight adviser, Mr. J. Wilbur Haley, to the principalship of the Miner School, Miss Leah Austin and Mr. John R. Jones were asked to advise the Spotlight staff, Miss Austin supervising the editorial department and Mr. Jones, the business. The fact that both Miss Austin and Mr. Iones had previously had a vast amount of experience in work of this kind, added greatly to the welfare of the organization. Both accepted the positions with the understanding that as soon as some one could be found to fill their places, they would be excused. At the beginning of the second semester, Mr. Cleon Fleck, formerly a member of the journalistic department at Columbia City, accepted the position of Journalism instructor and adviser to the publication, however, Mr. Fleck will not assume sole responsibility for the paper until next year.

Thinking that greater efficiency would be gained by having a small group, the staff of last semester contained approximately fifty-five members. This staff was headed by Mary Lou Cory, Editor-in-chief; Anne Boehme, Managing Editor; Thelma Springer, Desk Editor; Bob Williams, Editorial Writer; Don Troxel, Sports Editor; Rose Masursky and Jeanne Fox, News Editors, and Jane Pollak, Feature Editor. Dave Arnold was Business Manager during the first part of last semester, but the position was taken over by Estella Graft and Eileen Crapser, who remained the business managers throughout the second term.

During the second semester, Anne Boehme headed the paper as Editor-in-chief of the publication; Thelma Springer, as Managing Editor; Rose Masursky and Bob Williams, as Desk Editors; Carl Layman as Sports Editor; Clara Rhodes and Margie J. Miller, as News Editors, and Ireta Miller as Feature Editor. Mary Lou Cory acted as Student Adviser. The staff increased to nearly one hundred members the second term.

The Spotlight staff aided the North Side and South Side staffs by supervising the editorial part of the Sectional News, published a Regional News of their own, a special Easter Edition and an April Fool's edition. One of the social events sponsored by the staff during the year was a polluck in the early part of the first semester, at which time future plans for the staff were announced. A picnic sometime in the spring, and a publication banquet at the end of the school term are the two most important social functions of the year. At this banquet the new staff is usually announced and the most competent editor and business manager of the year are honored by having their names engraved on a silver cup. Spotlight letters and gold pins are awarded the hardest working members of the staff at this time. This event concludes the work for the staff during the year and acts as a sort of farewell party for the Seniors graduating from school.

Our Pen Pushers -- the Quill and Scroll

By Mary Lou Cory

At the beginning of the semester, the Central High School chapter of the International Journalistic Society, Quill and Scroll, consisted of only four members. These members were: Jane Bash, Mary McAnlis, Anne Boehme, and Mary Lou Cory. New members are admitted twice a year, in the fall and again in the spring. Those selected must have done outstanding work in either of the publications and must have been on the staff two years if a junior and one if a senior.

This year five people were selected at the fall election. Those five were: Margie J. Miller, Helen Mertz, Rose Masursky, Clara Rhodes, and Jane Pollak. Even though some of these new members were active in both publications, all five were selected from the Spotlight staff, there being none who were wholly eligible from the Caldron as not enough work had been done on the annual.

On April 23 six new members were announced three from the Caldron and three from the Spotlight. Those from the Caldron were Virginia Cowan, George Reed, and Ed O'Rourke. The Spotlight representatives were Herschel O'Shaughnessey, Thelma Springer, and Carl Laymon. To honor those who did not fullfill the Quill and Scroll qualifications, a new press club was announced early in May. Those elected were Irving Latz, Russell Ponsot, Morris Jones, Marian Cabler, Mary Farrell, and Jane Meyer from the Caldron; and Eileen Crapser, Estella Graft, Portor Crosbie, Howard Meads, William Eastes, Anna Louise Nordyke, Charles Laymon, Vernon John, Theodora Collias, Ireta Miller, Marie Franke, Jean Bergquist, Leona Zweig, Jeanne Bratt, Irene Krot, Ruth Rasp, Loretta Wallace, and Elda Mertz from the Spotlight.

The election of officers was held at the first meeting, and Mary McAnlis was elected president; Jane Bash, vice-president; Mary Lou Cory, secretary, and Anne Boehme, treasurer.

They Speak For Us

By Robert Duell

The debate squad of the 1936-37 season comprised Maxine Brand, Paul Schwehn, Ann Krugh, Kathryn Goodwin, Pauline Knipple, Kenneth Castor, Mary Koons, Raymond Heine, and Robert Duell. The squad led by Mr. Albert A. Coil, coach, has a very good record for this season, losing but four out of nineteen varsity debates. The affirmative, however, have the better record, losing only to Columbia City and winning from Huntington, Lafayette Central, Columbia City (earlier in the season), North Side, Huntington Township, and four schools in an invitational tournament at North Side. The negative defeated Huntington Township, North Manchester, Elmhurst, Bluffton, and one school in the invitational tournament but lost two in the tournament, one to North Side, and one to Columbia City.

In state competition Central won the subsectional, which was the first round, but lost to Columbia City in the sectional tournament.

In order to make this record possible the squad held thirty-three meetings starting on October 21, 1936, and ending February 24, 1937. In addition each member of the squad has spent many hours in individual study.

At the Indiana N. F. L. Debate Tournament at Purdue University April 23 and 24, teams from Central, North Side, Columbia City, Wiley of Terre Haute, Columbus, and Hammond competed. Ann Krugh and Robert Duell were the negative debaters and Paul Schwehn and Maxine Brand, the affirmative contenders of the subject, "Resolved, That all electric utilities shall be governmentally owned and operated." They went into the finals losing to Columbia City.

But the season comprised not only work; there were many more enoyable events. Every member attended the debate conference at Purdue University. There were many trips, for example, to North Manchester, to Columbia City, and to Elmhurst besides a Christmas party; a dinner at the Y. M. C. A. during the sub-sectional tournament, and the annual chicken dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coil, May 13.

They're Silver Tongued

By Robert Duell and Maxine Brand

Perhaps no other organization in Central entices a debator as does the National Forensic League, an honorary debating organization, national in its membership. This organization offers to students interested in interscholastic debate an opportunity to realize many rewards for their efforts to aid their school to take the State Debate Championship and at the same time to give the student experience through repeated competition. Within the last year special National Forensic League contests have been sponsored by the league in order to provide this competition long after the regular debate season has closed.

Our chapter, here at Central, sponsors "Bow Day" every year in conjunction with the annual Valentine Pep Session. Varicolored bows are made and the funds obtained through their sale are used to pay for the judges during the debate season. Other speech activities during the year are also sponsored by the League as is the spring banquet which formally closes the speech season, since no contests of major importance take place after the banquet.

At this banquet each year, awards are presented to those who have earned them through interscholastic debating throughout the season. Last year National Forensic League pins were presented to those who had accumulated sixty points each through debating. Pins were given to Max Ochstein, Helen Long, Paul Schwehn, and Maxine Brand. This year the pins will go to Robert Duell and Ann Krugh. Presentation is also made of the degree seals. These seals denote the degree which the student has attained. The white seal denotes the degree of Merit, the bronze, the degree of Honor, the silver, the degree of Excellence and the gold, the degree of Distinction.

The members of the National Forensic League are Paul Schwehn, Robert Duell, Raymond Heine, Maxine Brand, and Mr. A. Coil. Mr. Robert S. Koerber, Senior, was presented with an honorary membership certificate at the banquet held a year ago. Miss Tonkel, former coach of debate, is an honorary member. The organization holds meetings the first Monday of each month and officers are elected to serve for one entire school year. Due to the work involved during the debating season, meetings automatically become debate sessions; consequently, few business meetings are held. The officers for this year were Paul Schwehn. president; Raymond Heine, vice-president, and Maxine Brand, secretary.

Expert Marksmen...All!

By Marion Hillyer

In the fall of 1935, the Girls' Rifle Club was reorganized under the supervision of Mr. Harry Veatch and Miss Helen Hilgemann, This year Mr. Stout took Mr. Veatch's place.

Meetings are held every Wednesday in the Craig Building at which time the girls try their skill at shooting the "bull's eye." In January the club became a member of the Junior Division of the National Rifle Association.

The aim of every rifleman is to become pro-marksman, marksman, marksman first-class, sharpshooter, expert rifleman, and distinguished rifleman. To attain this goal demands much skill but the distinction gained is well worth the trouble.

Officers of the club for this year were Phyllis Criswell, president, and Jean Larimore, secretary-treasurer.

About twenty boys meet every Monday and Thursday on the range in the basement of the wood shop building to improve their shooting skill. This organization is affiliated with the National Rifle Association whose program for encouraging and promoting shooting by giving awards is a constant inspiration to the members. The awards are similar to those offered to the girls.

This chapter has held ten matches with a fair degree of success, but since many of the younger members show considerable promise, prospects are bright for next year. B. Keever is president and J. Magnuson is secretary-treasurer. Dues of twenty-five cents each semester are used to defray expenses. This year the club bought a telescope and an additional target rifle.

The Model Airplane Club, sponsored by Mr. Hemphill, aids all boys in learning the facts about airplanes. Officers of the club are: Roy Jahn, president; Eugene Eastman, vice-president; Richard Gerwig, secretary-treasurer.

Dues of five cents each per month are used for supplies. Meetings are held every Thursday with contests in the gym in which, Roy Jahn and Robert Knoche hold the records of Class "A", R. O. G. (rise off ground) models. Forrest Martens, Richard Gerwig and Eugene Eastman had some fast climbing scale models. Kenneth Dickenson and Melvin Schott built successful models in the balloon-bursting contest. Paul Lee, Forrest Martens, Melvin Schott, and John Johns built gliders that withstood the thermal currents for over forty seconds.

This semester the Club is building gas models for the National Aeronautical Association Contest.

Modern Robinhoods

By Elmer Ueber

The Archery Club of Central was organized in 1932 for the purpose of giving those students interested in the sport a chance to learn more about the art of making their own bows and arrows and especially to provide a range for indoor practice during the school year.

Meetings held every Tuesday are devoted to archery practice and the business of the club including a study of the development of archery. This study has been very interesting as the bow has been used for more than 25,000 years. During this year members of the Fort Wayne Archery Club have shot with our group and have given much help in improving scores. In the spring the rlub promotes archery hikes and shoots on he public range in Foster Park.

Mr. Wilson is the adviser and officers for the first semester were: president, Harry Robinson; vice-president, Elton Wilson; secretary and treasurer, Elmer Ueber. Officers for the second semester were: president, Elmer Ueber; vice-president, Ray Lyle; secretary and treasurer, John Shumaker.

Twenty-five boys and eighty girls in the combined Glee Club under Mr. Bailhe's direction, presented a Thanksgiving concert and took part in Central's radio program. In December they gave a Christmas Cantata "The Hope of the World," accompanied by the orchestra. Soloists in the Cantata were Dorothy Zeigler and Helen Phinney, sopranos, and Genevieve and Josephine Freigy, áltos. The Glee Clubs and the orchestra gave an Easter concert featuring Rev. Richard Trojan, baritone.

The Central High School String Trio composed of Marguerite Baker, violinist; Kathleen Bolyard, cellist; and Ruth Seigel, pianist, has distinguished itself by being placed in the first division at the National High School Band and Orchestra Contest held in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1936. The two preceding years the trio placed in the second division at the National Contests. The members

A game or a pep session is never complete without the music and color that is provided by Central's fifty-eight piece band, directed by Burton Bolyard. Dressed in attractive blue and white uniforms the band members by their enthusiastic manner and sprightly music inspire every Centralite.

In November a band concert, featuring Richard Stross, cornet soloist, was given in the gym for the entire student body.

By Ruth Seigel

Last year the orchestra participated in a music festival at Indiana University in Bloomington where they were awarded a certificate of merit. They were pronounced the best orchestra present. During the same month the orchestra came in the first division in the National Band and Orchestra Contest at Peru, entitling them to go to Elkhart for the State Contest.

Besides these achievements the orchestra has given several concerts for the school. This year they again won the district contest at Columbia City, April 16, and second division in state competition at Laporte, May 1.

C.G.A.A. Diary

By Ruth Sandkuhler

Sept. 23, 1936—A picnic at Foster Park. We rode out on a truck, singing and yelling all the way. Held short business meeting and then filled ourselves to the brim with hot dogs and roasted apples. We rode bicycles, played tennis and baseball, and soaked our feet crossing the river on stones.

Oct. 28, 1936—Elmhurst G. A. A. were our guests today. We played games and were entertained by Dick Derrickson and Richard McBride, a real one-man band. The cocoa tasted scorched, but the doughnuts were good.

Dec. 18, 1936—Following the Central-C. C. game, Gene Sheridan's orchestra played for our annual dance. The floor show was swell and so was the large crowd. Central and Central Catholic's teams were guests. Everybody had a "swinging" good time.

Next Wednesday we'll hold our Christmas Party. Hope we have the usual Santa Claus and a gift exchange. (No dog pins) I'm on the eats committee so there'll be food.

Jan. 30, 1937—C. G. A. A. went "on the air" at WOWO today. Ella and Dorothy explained the club and the basketball tournament. Nellie tap danced accompanied by Mary Lou, and then our own announcer, a dead ringer for John Hackett "picked up" the game. We yelled so much, and got so excited it was like a real game. At the half, Evelyn, Ruth and Ellen told about the exhibition and banquet. Lois was "Tack Benny."

Feb. 24, 1937—Today, Miss Irene Meyers, personnel director at General Electric Company, spoke to us on "Loyalty makes Teamwork." She appealed to every one of us and we want her to come again. She knows Central girls for some of her most loyal Elex members are from here.

March 4, 1937—A funny German band, relay races with tournament teams, encouraging speakers all helped us to put on the sectional pep session. Marion Armstrong introduced our speakers: Betty Hein, Dick Vogelsang, Mr. Croninger, and Mr. Altschul

May 10, 1937—The Spring Exhibition with its colorful folk dances, tap dances, tumbling, speedball, and group parade was again in big success.

Next Friday we will invite North Side and South Side letter girls to attend our Play Day. We are going to have a mixed tournament in which all the girls can participate.

Ånd next week we have the nicest thing of the school year. Our banquet. It will be given at the Women's club again and it will be exciting to find out who our new officers will be and who has to give a speech.

The Student Players

By Pauline Knipple

For those students who love the stage and are interested in its accomplishments, the Student Players' Club was organized in 1919. This club furnishes the opportunity for students to take an active part in productions given and to take charge of the regular monthly meetings. However, before one may become a member of the Student Players' Club, he must have taken dramatics for one semester in the classes that are held every Wednesday. After this requirement he is eligible to be initiated. The initiation usually centers about the play in which all beginners are required to participate, directed by the program committee for that month.

Central was awarded the prize for the best performance given by the initiates of the three high schools. The boy and girl individual awards were won by Maurice Snyder and Jeanne Davenport.

"The Hitching Post," an exceedingly humorous play, was the production given by Central initiates, Minister, Maurice Snyder, old maid, Jeanne Davenport; bride, Marion Menze; bridegroom, Robert Stoddard; Miss Suter, Virginia Cowan; bride's mother, Kathryn Simon; pianist, Sarah Stettler; Stubby, Jack Grenzenbach; Shinny, Mary Amber Wolf; ushers, Herschel O'Shaughnessey and Robert DePrey; bride's son, LeRoy Gerke; bride's father, Geary Menze; bride's maids, Eldon Baker, Marjorie Burns, Lois Brower, Betty Fuller, Theodore Collias, Mary Przebindowski, Lois Heck, Martha Gause, Virgender Deventry Fuller, Theodore Collas, Mary Przebindowski, Lois Heck, Martha Gause, Virgender Deventry Burns, Lois Gause, Virgender Collias, Mary Przebindowski, Lois Heck, Martha Gause, Virgender Daventry Burns, Lois Brower, Maryone Gause, Virgender Daventry Burns, Lois Brower, Maryone Gause, Virgender Daventry Burns, Lois Brower, Maryone Gause, Virgender Daventry Burns, Lois Brower, Burns, Lois Burns, Lois Brower, Burns, Burns, Burns, Burns, Burns, Burns, Bur ginia Yergens, Mae Rose Slagle, Jeanne Fox, and Delores O'Connor.

One of the highlights of the Student Players' activities is the annual polluck, held in Central's auditorium where entertainment and refreshments are provided for the members by the month's program committee. The final meeting for all three schools is held in June at Franke Park where, following the main event which is the initiation program, a dance is held and then dinner is served.

Miss Suter, the head of the Student Players' Club, is a very capable adviser. She directs all the plays given throughout the year in each high school.

The Student Players' Club has adopted the point system whereby a member receives points for services he renders the club. Such as serving on the program committee, participating in a play, or working backstage. After the member has finished his high school work and is ready to graduate, the points he has accumulated will be added and the ones receiving an unusually high number of points are presented a gold "D."

The officers for the Student Players' Club from September to January were: Lawrence Baker, president; Bob Spackman, vice-president; Maxine Brand, secretary-treasurer.

The officers from January to June were: Bob Spackman, president, Andree Thomas, vice-president, and Pauline Knipple, secretary-treasurer.

Behind the Footlights

By Pauline Knipple

Central's dramatic season of 1936-1937 opened with the annual presentation of the two one-act plays directed by Miss Suter, "The Fifteenth Candle," a tragedy, and "The Marriage Proposal," a comedy. Those who took part in "The Fifteenth Candle" were: Vedetti, an old Italian shoemaker, Paul Schwehn: Stella, his daughter, a seams ress. Pauline Knipple; Rosa, a younger daughter, Mary McAnlis; Mr. Goldstein, an unprincipled man, who acts as labor agent for a factory, Lawrence Baker; Miss Roberts, an art teacher in the high school, Elizabeth Lanier. The plot revolved around Stella and her father, Vedetti, fighting for Rosa, as the father wanted Rosa to guit school and go to work at the factory, but Stella wanted her to finish school and continue in her art work. The tragedy of the play was the revelation that Rosa might have to work at the factory in spite of Stella's pleadings.

Then to lighten the hearts of the audience "The Marriage Proposal" followed, featuring Maxine Brand as Natalie Steponavitch; Robert Williams (the young man in love), as Ivan Vassilivitch, and Robert Kaag, the father of Natalie. The play centered on the two lovers who were always quarreling about something that was of no importance such as whose dog was superior.

An unusual senior play was given this year, November 20 and 21, for the plot was different from that of the usual run of plays. The title of the play was "Once There Was a Princess." The role of Princess Delatorre was taken by Elizabeth Lanier. Other leading characters were: Robert Williams as Phil Lennox, the boy in love with the princess; Dorothy Staley, as Ruby Boyd, a young girl in love with Milton D'Arcy, played by Wayne Brown. Virginia Yergens, Mrs. Boyd; Julia Ann Cowan, the youngest in the Boyd family, Hazel Boyd; Pharaba Rosenbarger, the old maid aunt, Aunt Meta Trimble; Pauline Knipple, the town gossip, Mrs. Purrington; Andree Thomas, another gossip, Mrs. Seaver; Mae Rose Slagle, the French maid, Josephine; Dwayne Shearer, a neighbor; Paul Schwehn, Signor Moroni; and Maxine Brand, the old princess, completed the cast.

The play concerned the coming home of a princess to her small home town in America. Having never seen a princess, the town set about for a celebration. The princess not realizing this, returns home and finds the town in such a turmoil over her coming that she keeps her identity a secret except to a few persons and lives up to expectations by appearing in all the finery of a queen. The princess falls in love with her childhood sweetheart and all ends happily.

"The Bellman of Mons," the Christmas play, featured Robert Williams as the bellman. Many student players were in the ensemble scene which really "clicked." Irving Latz as the cynical citizen, Bob Kaag as the Town-crier, Jack Grenzenbach as Jules, the boy who was able to play the organ, comprised some of the outstanding characterizations.

The church set designed and executed by Lawrence Baker and Bob Kaag was unusual and effective.

Three Reasons for Central's Enthusiasm

By Jane Bash

"Crack! Central's on the Floor!" These ringing words will always be remembered by every loyal fan, as they are the opening words of every athletic affair. Dressed in tricky suits of blue and white, the three cheerleaders, Jeff Michell, Ed Timmis, and

Byron Leeth, keep the crowd enthusiastic by leading the many yells of dear old Central. On the windy football field, on the slick basketball floor, and at every hilarious pep session these boys inspire us.

Melody - Makers

The Harmonica Band under the leadership of Mr. Arnold has thirty-nine members with an average attendance of twenty-five at the meetings. The band was organized a few years ago by Mr. Michaud, who is now a member of North Side High School faculty.

The band is made up of harmonicas, violins, accordions, guitars, Jews harps, clarinet and bones. It has given entertainment before many civic organizations,

P. T. A. groups, Lodges, Church organizations, C. C. C. camps, Factory organizations, Schools and pep sessions. It is a popular organization. Many requests for entertainment had to be turned down because of the strain on the members' time.

Members of the band attend the practice rehearsals at their own free will. The good times and the pleasure of playing is the attraction that keeps the attendance high and the band a success.

Modern Dianas

By Mary Hattersley and Marian Cabler

Diana was the Greek goddess of sport, but she was no more lithe and gay than the Dianas of today. No sport is left untouched at the end of the school year by these young disciples of Diana. Volleyball, the first attraction, draws many enthusiasts from freshmen to seniors. Class work teaches the game for a few weeks and then the gym is open to after-school practice.

Six gruelling weeks of practice are essential for any team willing to win the volleyball tournament. Eight teams are chosen to compete in this tourney, a first and second team for every class. Each team plays against the others and the winner of all the games is the champion. This year the senior team won the championship. The sophomore first team defeated the freshmen team and the junior team defeated the sophomores. The junior, sophomores, and freshmen second teams each ended with a game to its credit.

Speedball, a combination of soccer and basketball, was introduced this year and proved most popular for its speed and varied ways of scoring, kicking and completing passes. Speedball is dropped when basketball takes the floor, for basketball is the favorite of many.

Like volleyball, basketball brings a tournament, but because of the quick action and common interest in basketball, its tournament is by far the most exciting. Eight teams are again chosen, matched, and played off against one another. The seniors again took the championship, entitling them to having their class numeral again engraved on the Koerber Cup. The junior team put up a hard fight and had two games to their credit. Although the sophomore team displayed excellent teamwork, only one game was won. This team is a promising one for future years. Among the outstanding players of the whole tournament were Motter, Hardiek, Frech on the senior team, Nard and Conley on the junior team, Arnold and Hammons on the sophomore team, and Thomsen and Conley on the freshmen team. Betty Motter was high on points with Ellen Heck second.

Diana, being a goddess, did all things with ease. But her modern followers, not goddesses, meet a stumbling block. That block is tumbling. All unused muscles and stiff joints soon become most prominent. Head stands, numbers of rolls and jumps, acrobatic stunts, and pyramids are just a part of the sport. But after long days of practice experts appear. Exceptional talent was found in Maxine Larimer, Bernadette Shearer, Joyce Lord, Mary Helen Kelly, and Jeanette Danaher.

Every month offers a new activity for gifted athletes. Thus the dancers of Central find their joy, for tap dancing is next in the $(Continued\ on\ page\ 81)$ spotlight. Of course those who have never had tap shoes on their feet are introduced to tap lessons. For beginners, the class starts learning the simple steps of threes, fives, and sevens, and then a simple routine of steps. Advanced classes and after-school participants learn the more difficult dances. A few of the girls are really skilled and act as student instructors.

The two teachers and the girls taking gym work finish the school year with the climax of the whole program, the Girls' Gym Exhibition. All the weeks of practicing volleyball, basketball and tumbling, tap and folk dancing find their reward in this giant affair. Colorful costumes are planned and made.

READY? HOLD IT!

Dances are originated and worked out, relay races performed, and expert tumbling feats accomplished. Each sport of the year parades forth in brilliant pageantry adding its bit to the exhibition held on May 7 with about four hundred girls taking part to the enjoyment of the thousand spectators.

Baseball has a special appeal, for it can be played outdoors in May. The time, however, is limited, but players come out after school twice a week to earn sufficient points for awards. Many Central girls become expert baseballers and are "booked" to play on city play grounds during the summer.

The Pigskin Parade

By Ed Miller and Herschel O'Shaughnessey

The Central football season was one to be proud of considering the fact that fourteen letter men and ten regulars graduated in 1936.

In their initial game the Tigers engaged Bluffton at the North Side Athletic Field and won in the fourth quarter when right halfback, Al Russell, tallied from the 22 yard line on the wide end sweep.

The Tigers' next engagement was at South Bend with Riley High School. The game was hard fought all the way with Riley finally winning by the score of 13 to 0.

Central's third tilt was played at Elkhart. As that school was forecast as possible state champs, it was no digrace for the Tigers to be trimmed 25 to 7.

Playing Central Catholic at the North Side Field the next Saturday afternoon, Central rolled up their second win beating the Catholic School by the low score of 9 to 0. Hanchar tallied from the five yard line and Richardson, aggresive sophomore end, fell on C. C.'s right halfback behind the line for a safety which constituted Central's nine points and the only scoring of the game.

The next tilt was a push-over for the Tigers, as they easily defeated Decatur, 25 to 7. Bourne on a beautiful open field run ran 70 yards for a touchdown. Huth, reserve center, intercepted a pass and duplicated Bourne's feat for two of Central's most outstanding runs of the '36 campaign.

The North Side Redskins mowed down Central next and with Shumm carrying the ball took the Tigers into camp by the score of 12 to 0. Central fought throughout the game, but was unable to.cope with the attack set up by the Redskins.

In the Auburn game Central made up for the defeat inflicted by North Side, beating the Red Devils by the overwhelming score of 33 to 6. Reserves played most of the game with Russell, Talley, J. Celarek, F. Celarek, and Red Miller scoring for the Tigers. Altekruse converted three extra points.

Columbia City threw a scare into Central when they scored six points early in the game, for it appeared that they would hold the Tigers scoreless. Red Miller saved the game, however, as he plunged for a touchdown with about three minutes to play, and then plunged for the extra point. Result: Central 7 Columbia City 6.

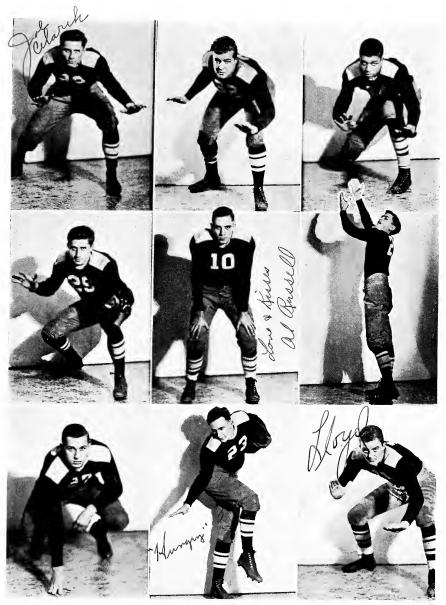

Training hard all week the Tigers were given a slight chance to beat South Side Archers, but the Archers turned the tables and completely overwhelmed the downtown school, beating Central by the score of 25 to 13. The Tigers were held scoreless until the fourth quarter when by the superior passing of Ray Yarman and the plunging ability of Red Miller, Central garnered 13 points, Red scoring both touchdowns and Lloyd Altekruse converting the extra point.

The 1936 football season was over, but because of his ability, Emmet Bogdon, stellar right guard, was elected Honorary Captain of the squad and was also placed on the News-Sentinel Mythical All-City Eleven.

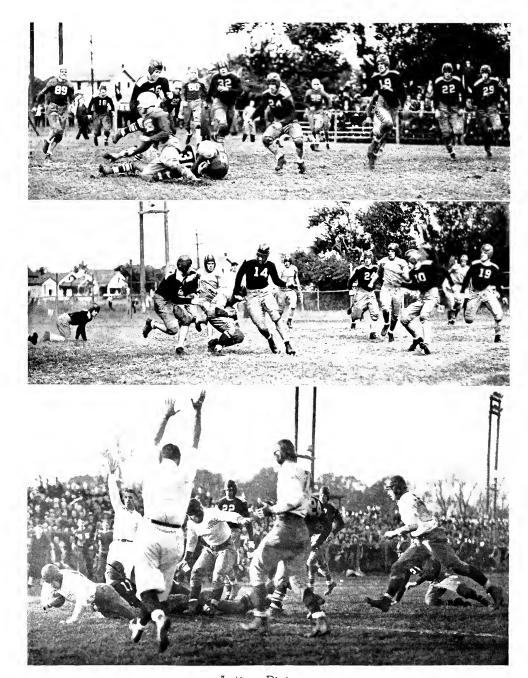

The campaign considering records was not a great or overwhelming success, but considering courage plus willingness to work this season will be long remembered by students and Central advocates. The ranks were riddled by graduation, yet Murray Mendenhall took the material offered him and developed it into a squad capable of being called the Fighting Tigers of Central High School.

The Light Brigade

In spite of the loss of Steve Sitko, Bob Brown, and Fred Kabisch, the eight veterans, Armstrong, Motter, Braden, Paul, Schaefer, Riddle, Altekruse, and Staniszewski, with the able assistance of Joe and Frank Celerak, the Tigers again went to State.

In the first game of the season, Muncie's tall quintet fell before the fast-speeding Bengals by the score of 27 to 23.

On the next week-end Bob Nulf's proteges were subdued by the Central Light Brigade by the close score of 32 to 28.

Archie Chadd's highly publicized Anderson Indians fell before the rampaging Tigers the next week in Central's gym. Anderson led by a good margin at the end of the third period, but the Tigers paced by Curly Armstrong, pulled rapidly away to win with 39 to 27.

Kendallville and Columbia City were the first N. E. I. C. games, and both teams were defeated by the respective scores of 37 to 23 and 41 to 25.

Using their shock troops a good portion of the time, the Tigers swamped the Irish of Central Catholic, 53 to 18.

With six wins and no losses charged against them, the Tigers suffered a slight relapse during the Christmas Tournament and were beaten by Horace Mann and North Side by the score of 33 to 28 and 39 to 28 respectively.

The next four games were run-aways as Central defeated her Conference brothers by large scores. Auburn fell to the tune of 40 to 16 while Hartford City went down 29 to 15. With a commanding lead secured in the first half, the Central reserve outplayed the Bluffton quintet to win 36 to 16. The Yellow Jackets of Decatur were held to one field goal, as Central won by the imposing score of 53 to 16.

The Archers of South Side were favored to knock off the Bengals, but the Tigers, continuing their tactics, race-horsed South Side to win by the large score of 47 to 27.

Central's second victory over North Side was more impressive, the score being 44 to 11.

The Light Brigade, living up to their illustrious ancestors from whence the name was derived, continued their celebrated winning streak by severely defeating Huntington, 53 to 16; South Bend Central, 42 to 29. Bedford, favorite of many to win the state title, was defeated by the score of 42 to 29, and the South Side Archers again beaten by 34 to 13.

Morton of Richmond on their own court proved a thorn in Central's side for three quarters, but the Tigers flashed a superior brand of ball in the last period and beat the Mortonians by the score of 36 to 28.

The Blue Blazers from Elkhart proved Central's greatest foes but were finally defeated by the close score of 36 to 34.

Marion, Central's last opponent, was downed by the Bengalites by the score of 30 to 16.

The Tigers entered the sectional as favorites, yet, as the draw indicated, were faced with the toughest schedule of the city teams. In their first game the Central quintet waded through Woodburn by the massive score of 83 to 11. Decatur proved stubborn but finally went down, 47 to 28. The Tigers then proceeded to disprove a long time jinx and sent the Archers of South Side home with a stinging defeat of 35 to 21. In the finals Central defeated a determined North Side band, 37 to 28, to win their second sectional in a row.

Because of their excellent work during the tournament, Armstrong, Schaefer, Paul, and Motter gained positions on the all-sectional squad.

The Bengal Quintet continued their impressive win streak by swamping the Airedales of Hartford City in the first game of the Regional at Huntington by the top heavy score of 41 to 22 with the Reserves holding up in the final quarter the lead gained by the Regulars.

The Bulldogs from Clear Creek, winners over Berne, were conquered by the Bengal Band in the Regional finals, 47 to 21.

With the good wishes of all Fort Wayne behind them, the Tigers moved into the camp of the Muncie Bearcats and severely defeated the Magic City Quintet by the score of 43 to 31. Warsaw, a dark horse, surprised the dopesters and came from behind to knock off the highly-touted Wabash team to the tune of 31 to 26. In the evening game the Bengals ran over the Warsaw Quintet to win by 15 points, the final score being 37 to 22, thus winning the Super-Regional.

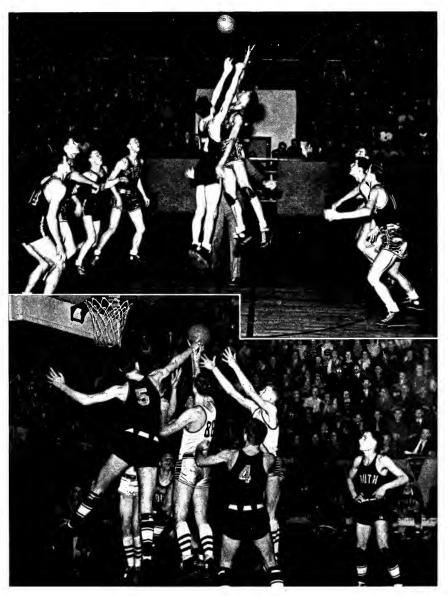

Picked by many to win the State Championship, the Tigers of Fort Wayne hit one of their unusual moments, which means an off-day, and consequently fell before the Happy Hunters of Huntingburg by the close score of 30 to 28, in the opening game at Indianapolis. Anderson defeated Rochester in the next game and continued on their way to State Championship by swamping Huntingburg in the final, 33 to 23.

Thus ended a great season for the Bengals. Winning 27 games out of 30 the Tigers in the hearts of a great number of people were and always will be one of the finest teams ever to participate on a basketball court. The state of Indiana will never forget those rampaging Tigers, who in three years won 72 of 82 games played. A great record for a great ball club.

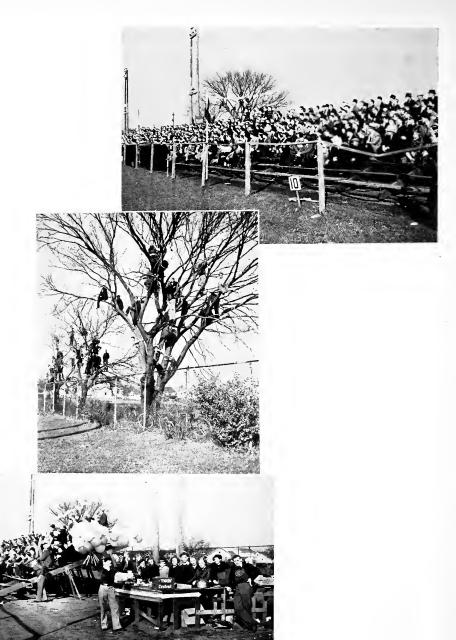

Paced not by one man but by all the boys playing, the Tigers combined good sportsmanship with natural ability and in the hearts of all Northern Indiana are the "Uncrowned Champs" of this renowned basketball state. Because of the unusual success of the hardwood campaign, the Tigers swept aside all precedent and elected not one captain but six of the regulars. This enables Braden, Paul, Schaefer, Riddle, Motter, and Armstrong to wear gold stripes on their sleeves instead of the customary white ones.

Intra-Murals

Intra-Mural sports, for boys not capable of making the varsity, have an unusually large following in Central High School. This form of sport and pleasure also serves as a field where the two coaches, Mr. Mendenhall and Robert Dornte can observe the various teams and secure a good idea of what the prospects for varsity will be. Great names have arisen from the intramural ranks and most boys attribute their success in athletics to their early experience in these after-school activities.

In the All-Star League which is composed usually of the larger and more capable boys, the Panthers held full sway. This team consisting of M. Marquette, T. Salmon, H. O'Shaughnessey, D. Blosser, and J. Arnold severely defeated all opponents but the Rams who eked out a win in the opening game of each team. In the playoff for the championship the Rams took an early lead and were ahead at the half by the score of 9 to 7. The Panthers, however, turned on the steam in the last frame to win the game and championship by the decisive score of 23 to 13.

In the Senior Division the Cubs were the main contenders for the crown. This team displayed an impregnable defense and with a sterling offense were by far the best in this league. The Cubs swept aside all opponents and won the majority of their games by huge scores. Paced by D. Doswell, W. McCormick, J. Stiles. R. Jahn, L. Funk, and N. Funk the Cubs defeated the Five Aces in the play-off to reign as champs of this division.

Perhaps the most outstanding quintet in the school for its size was the Hot Shots. This team, small but mighty powerful, displayed such cunning defense and offense that all opponents were at a loss. Composed of R. Bradtmiller, R. Kite, R. Miller, L. Fisher, and S. Gladding, the Hot Shots were tops as they won the championship of the Midget League by defeating the Junior Cubs in the final game 22 to 10.

Much interest was shown in the annual free throw tournament which attracted a large number of participants, at the conclusion of the basketball campaign. R. Kissinger was by a good majority the most capable of all the performers and not many were surprised when he won the title of champion in this phase of sports. To win he defeated R. Yarman, R. Dull, D. Campbell, and D. Kabisch.

In the annual elimination tournament held in the gym a dark horse came through. The Red Devils consisting of B. Moyer, C. Kizer, K. Fletter, A. Tyler, C. Rousseff Turpchenoff and R. Gross were not expected to go far; however playing superb ball in all their games this team swamped the Rams in the finals 23 to 11.

Along the Cinder Path

By H. O'Shaughnessey

Confronted with the loss of Brown, Charlton, Garvin, Collias, Schroff, Givens, and many other lesser performers, Coach Mendenhall is faced with a problem in developing a capable track squad. However the return of Al Russell, Dick Kite, and Morris Owens has bolstered Central's hopes a great deal as these boys are all efficient performers and combined with other underclassmen should produce a well-balanced outfit.

In the high and low hurdles both, Ed Miller and Ethar Charlton loom as poiential point winners. Charlton, being only a sophomore has looked unusually good in early tryouts and should develop into a great runner while Miller who is a senior has only this year but is determined to make the best of it.

In the 100 yard dash Al Russell, veteran from last year, seems to be tops and along with Talley, a freshman, and Jack Hoefler should secure a great number of points in this dash.

Russell is also a good performer in the 200 and 440 yard run and with Ecenbarger, and Hanley should work wonders on the cinder path.

In the long and gruelling mile run M. Dunlap and Lantz seem to be the main contenders while F. Celarek is the only varsity man from last year.

In the shot put Ecenbarger and Schrimp are the reserve contenders while Owens has his position cinched by virtue of his outstanding performances this year and last.

Dick Kite seems to be the Tiger's best bet in the high jump. Kite who is only α junior and who stands only about 5:6 has jumped 5:8 this year. With Lantz and Schrimp we have a capable trio.

Jack Hoefler and Roy John seem to be Central's best bets in the pole vault as both boys have turned in some good jumps this year.

In the 200 yard dash Mike Gaines, lankey sophomore, has the best record. Along with Campbell and Turpchinoff this trio should garner a great many points for the thinly clads.

Chris Rousseff has turned in unusually good time in the 880 yard dash and as he is only a junior, he is expected to be a great track star.

In the half mile relay Mendy will probably use either Charlton, Rousseff, Turpchenoff, Talley, Gaines, Yarman or Campbell as all of these boys have showed great possibilities.

H. Kulesza only a freshman, seems to be best in the broad jump. Henry, along with H. Hanks, has jumped nearly 18 feet and as the season progresses should turn in better records.

On the whole the Tigers seem to have an evenly balanced squad and should be a threat to all opponents.

However North Side Redskins should be tops as graduation took only a couple of last year's pointgetters, and should, barring accidents, develop into a State Championship squad. South Side also should prove to be a serious contender for the City, however, as graduation which riddled the ranks of the Tigers was more fortunate for the Redskins and Archers.

Ritual Story

By Andree Thomas

"One of prophetic name. His name shall be Mann, and he shall give light to many men."

So speaks the priestess in the Commencement Ritual of 1937. The theme of the ritual is chosen to commemorate the birth of Horace Mann, the most influential factor in the development of the common school in America. Many schools throughout the country in one form or another, are commemorating the Horace Mann Centenary.

The main characters in the ritual this year are the Priestess, the three Fates, and Horace Mann.

"Distant Harvest," the title of the ritual, was written by Mrs. Lane and directed by Miss Suter. It will be given on our Commencement day at North Side and will be performed by the members of the senior class of Central High School.

Perfectability of the human race was the goal that Horace Mann set before him. Although he did not have many followers in the beginning of this goal, he gradually instilled in the people a belief that it was worthy. Unselfishly and courageously he plodded ahead although many odds were against him, until he succeeded. Not only did he succeed in his goal but he left a remembrance of a truly great man and a truly great achievement.

The high type man that Horace Mann was is revealed by the following statement he made once while talking to a friend. "At times, Sir, it seems to me that words, counsel, exhortations seem like substance thrown into the abyss. I hear no report giving assurance that somewhere there is a bottom upon which they strike. But continue to throw in, I will. Perhaps at some future day I shall hear an echo from the depths. If I do not, some follower of mine in the glorious cause will do it; and at length the chasm will be filled, and not only filled but above the surface, as its depths now sink below, and that structure shall be the glory of the world."

Dr. Frederick Bohn Fisher, of Detroit, former bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be the speaker at the commencement exercises at North Side High School Auditorium at 2:30 P. M., June 10.

Honors will be bestowed upon the Valedictorian, Ruth Seigel, whose four-year scholastic average is 94.80, and upon Elizabeth Lanier, who is salutatorian with an average of 94.25.

The four-year Honor Roll follows:

OFFSET

the Modern Method

There is so much interest in offset today—it is on the lips of practically everyone who is even slightly interested in the Graphic Arts—that we are referring to it now as the modern method. In one sense, this gives us great cause for happiness. Personally we believe the statement true that today, offset is the modern method of business.

The equipment of the Fort Wayne Printing Company is complete . . . namely offset, and letter press . . . both being used on the Caldron this year.

We suggest your consultation with us before art, paper and other details are definitely settled. You to indicate the effect desired and we to get it for you.
